

Of Interest to Every Woman

Edited by Martha Westover

Feb. 20

LEGACIES OF LIGHT

When Father Sun sinks in the West
To carry day o'er land and sea,
I find it pleasant in my rest
To think the stars hold his bequest
In extra gifts of light for me!
The which right faithfully they pay
In their own friendly, smiling way.

MENU

Breakfast.
Stewed Winter Peas Oatmeal
Poached Eggs on Toast Rounds
Hot Rolls Coffee

Luncheon.
Beef Croquettes with Brown Sauce
Muffins Tea
Apple Sauce Cookies

Dinner.
Clear Brown Soup
Roast Chicken Breasted
Caramel Sweet Potatoes
Baked (canned) Corn
Almond Custard Coffee

Beef Croquettes.
Put what beef you have on hand through the chopper twice and until perfectly smooth. Make a cup of thick white sauce and mix with the meat till it is like stiff dough. Spread in a shallow tin and set away. When cold and stiff cut into strips, roll into croquette shape, dip in sifted crumbs, then in half-beaten egg, then in crumbs again, and set away. After two hours or more, cook two at a time in a wire basket in deep fat. Drain on paper in the oven; serve with white or tomato sauce.

Liver Pills
It is impossible to be well, simply impossible, if the bowels are constipated. Waste products, poisonous substances, must be removed from the body at least once each day, or there will be trouble. Ask your doctor about Ayer's Pills.

Direct Action
The only Gas Range that utilizes all the heat. Pays for itself.

RYAN-SMITH
THE FREED CO.
31 EAST BROAD STREET

Get Ready for 1914
Our Office Furniture Department can solve the question of Filing Cabinets, Desks, etc., for the new year. LET US "SHOW YOU"

SYDNOR & HUNDLEY
SEVENTH AND GRACE STREETS.
Save 25 Labels from:

Eat Mor Bread
and get a pair Steel Ball-Bearing Roller Skates for 79c in cash.

HAVE YOU SEEN THE
New Method Gas Ranges
—AT—
PETTIT & CO.'S?

Children's School $1
Shoes.
ALBERT STEIN
Cor. 5th and Broad Sts.

Hopkins Furniture Co.
7 West Broad St.
Cash or Credit.

THE REINACH CO., Inc.
107 E. BROAD STREET.
MILLINERY—Women's and Misses' Outer Apparel.

The Comet Heater
Self Feeder
More sold than any other heater in Richmond. Prices, $18.50 and $22.50. Set up FREE.

Rountree-Sutherland-Cherry Corp.
HAMMOND
"Flowers of Guaranteed Freshness."
Tel. Madison 630.

BEFORE THE PRICE OF EGGS COMES DOWN

BY FRANCES MARSHALL.
Of course, eggs are nourishing, and even at a high price are economical. A 6-cent egg is worth 6 cents' worth of nourishment, whereas 6 cents' worth of lamb chops is part fat and part gristle and part bone that must be discarded. Nevertheless, when eggs are high in price, it is well enough to find nourishment in cheaper foods and to use fewer eggs in the general cooking. Here are some ways of economizing on eggs:

When Eggs Are Scarce.
When you are going to fry a few oysters, don't use an egg to dip them in. Instead, dry them on a soft cloth and then dip them in a little olive oil; then in cracker crumbs. The oil not only makes the crumbs stick, but it gives the oyster a delicate flavor. One-egg brownies are economical little cakes. To make them cream a third of a cupful of butter with the same amount of sugar. Add a third of a cupful of molasses and a cupful of sifted flour. Then fold in a cupful of nut meats, broken in small bits. These can be saved from time to time when larger pieces of nuts are wanted to put on top of cakes or on cheese balls or candies. Bake in small tins.

This is a good one-egg spice cake. Cream half a cupful of butter with a cupful of sugar and add a well-beaten egg. Sift together two cupfuls of flour, one teaspoonful of cream of tartar and half a teaspoonful of soda, two level teaspoonsful of powdered cinnamon and one teaspoonful each of cloves and allspice, and a quarter of a nutmeg grated. Add all these dry ingredients to the butter and egg mixture, alternately with a cupful of milk. Bake in a sheet in a shallow tin and frost with chocolate icing, made in this way: Melt a tablespoonful of butter in half a cupful of water over the fire and then add two squares of grated chocolate and a cupful of sugar. Boil slowly twenty minutes and then heat until cool. Add a teaspoonful of vanilla and spread on the cake.

An Eggless Milkless and Butterless Cake.
For an unusual eggless, milkless and butterless cake, mix two cupfuls of brown sugar with two tablespoonfuls of lard and two cupfuls of cold water. Then add a pound of seeded raisins and a pound of currants, a teaspoonful and a half of salt and three tablespoonfuls of cinnamon. Put over the fire in a saucepan and boil for five minutes. Then cool and add a heaping teaspoonful of baking soda, dissolved in a little hot water and three cupfuls of sifted dough. Bake for about an hour in a moderate oven.

Baroque pearls, ornamented with jeweled wreaths, make charming hairpins. The best tailored shirts for sports wear are those with an extra large armhole. Large women should avoid the bright colors; modified colors are the safest for them. Cashmere shawl designs are coming back with printed taffetas.

SANATIVE SHAVING
Self Shampooing
With CUTICURA SOAP

Assisted in case of irritation of the skin or scalp by light applications of Cuticura Ointment, mean up-to-date care of the skin and hair. Special directions with each cake.

KITCHEN WRINKLES
When cleaning knives damp them before rubbing on the boards; this will produce a better polish and they will clean much quicker. To impart a delicate odor to linen, saturate a piece of cotton or blotting paper with oil of lavender and place it among the various articles. A little bag of sulphur suspended in a bird cage is not only healthy for the bird, but keeps away the parasites with which some birds are infested. If wood worms are in old furniture rub constantly with turpentine. The polish made of turpentine and beeswax is to be preferred to any other for this use. When boiling a haddock fasten the head to the tail, and only sufficient water to cover, and boil slowly till cooked. Haddock is hard and indigestible if boiled fast. Old nail holes in wood may be filled up by mixing sawdust with glue till it is the consistency of stiff paste. Press this compound into the holes, and it will become as hard as the wood itself. When jars and jugs have been put away and smell musty, rinse them with lime water. This is particularly good for jars with oil of lavender and smells. Many physicians think highly of the healing effects of coffee taken before they visit cases of infectious disease. Sponges are to be kept in good condition they should not be allowed to lie in soapy water; the soap should be rinsed out of them at once after use. Whenever possible sponges should be hung up to dry, and not be left lying in a damp condition.

Delicatessen "Treats"
Distinctive delicacies that please the appetite:
Home-made Country Sausage, 25c pound.
Sliced Boneless Ham Roll, 30c pound.
Brook Hill Ivey Sausage, 25c pound.
Mexican Frajoles, rice-and-chile, tamales, put up in San Antonio, 15c can.

Hermann Schmidt
Telephone, Monroe 101-100.
504-508 East Broad St.

It is trimmed with blue moiré ribbon and one pink rose.

The Great Trials of History

Trial of Jonathan Wild.

We read a great deal about the thieving trusts in our day, and we look upon them as modern institutions. They have existed for centuries and in various forms. More than 200 years ago there was formed in England what was known as the "Thief Trust." At the head of this was Jonathan Wild. Wild was unique in the business, being a thief who never stole; a business man who never employed; a scoundrel who helped the law, and a man of the law who helped scoundrels. In these varied occupations his name became famous at a time and place when the thieves found an abundance of profit in the scheme.

When he emerged from jail, and with the knowledge he gained there, he drew about him a number of crooks and started in the business of thieving, employing them to do the work, while he would receive the stolen goods. He hit upon a novel scheme. He would have his men steal the goods, and then he would hunt up the victims and promise to recover them for a stipulated sum. This worked admirably for a time, and Wild, as well as the thieves, found an abundance of profit in the scheme.

By the world at large Wild was considered a clever detective, who was especially fortunate in tracing lost property. He managed to make the thieves wholly in his power, and by holding a threat over their heads he made the great army of crooks give him slavish obedience.

When robbery became so general Parliament was forced to pass a law making it a felony for any one to take money on pretense of restoring goods unless he should also produce the thief. Wild was, by this time, sufficiently wealthy to have retired, but the spirit of graft was too strong for him. At last in 1725 he was arrested, was tried and was sentenced to be hanged. He was apprehended at his house in the Old Bailey and was carried before the John Fryar. The charge against him was "that for many years he had been a confederate with a great number of highwaymen, pickpockets, housebreakers, shoplifters and other thieves."

The trial was begun on Saturday, May 15, the previous day the prisoner having distributed among the jury-men a considerable number of pointed papers, entitled "A list of the persons discovered, apprehended and convicted of several robberies on the highway by Jonathan Wild."

When the jury took their seats, and the prisoner was brought to the bar, the counsel for the King took notice of his extraordinary proceeding in the distribution of these circulars, stating that such practices were unwarrantable, and that he suffered in any court of justice as an effort to influence a jury.

The trial of Wild lasted for a number of days, and the most damaging evidence was brought against him, showing that he was the greatest rascal of the age and one of the greatest and cleverest that had ever been apprehended. He was found guilty, and the death sentence was imposed upon him.

The evening before the sentence was carried out Wild inquired how the noble Greeks and famous Romans, who slew themselves, came to be so glorious in history, and if self-murder was a crime. His jailers gave him no opportunity for self-destruction. At the place of execution Wild, who had been then half-delirious by poison, began to recover, and united with the other criminals in the public prayers, as well as the tumult and the clamor which seemed to give them relief.

It was not easy to express with what roushness he was treated by the mob on the way to his execution, as well as when he went to the block. Instead of those signs of pity which they generally show when common criminals were going to execution, they reviled and cursed him, and pelted him with

PRINCE MONTENUOVO IS VERY UP TO DATE

Grand Master of Court of Vienna Starts Service of Feminine Censors of Fashion.

BY LA MARQUISE DE FONTENOT.
PRINCE MONTENUOVO, grand master of the court of Vienna, more than at any other royal or imperial court of Europe old-time traditions have been retained, and the laws of etiquette are strictly enforced, is nothing if not up-to-date. For he has inaugurated a service of feminine censors of fashion.

Emperor Francis Joseph and Archduchess Maria Annunciatia, who officiates as the first lady of the land, as well as the other ladies of the imperial family, have taken exception to those extravaganzas of fashion which have incurred the anathema of the Roman Catholic Church, especially in the matter of slit and transparent skirts and exaggerated décolletage.

Finding that the chamberlains were either unwilling to decide, or incapable of determining, whether a woman's dress violated the proprieties insisted upon by the Emperor, Prince Montenuovo, at the court festival of the dunes du palais to station himself at the entrance to the state apartments at the Hofburg, under the pretext of welcoming the guests, but in reality for the purpose of acting as censors of feminine costumes. Whenever the latter did not satisfy the requirements, the dunes du palais beckoned to a chamberlain, who by their directions offered his arm to the fair offender and invited her to withdraw.

Prince Montenuovo, who spent some time in the United States as a young man, is a grandson of Empress Marie Louise of France, and of her second husband, Count Adam Neipperg, who, in the dramatic "Madame Sans-Gêne," plays the role of the villain. In this way he has, through his grandmother, the Empress, who was an Austrian archduchess, a strong bias against the French Revolution.

His father, the half-brother of Napoleon III, "L'Aiglon," Queen Elizabeth of Belgium has likewise set her face resolutely against the present extremes of feminine fashion, and has been content to have the chamberlain and aides-de-camp act as censors at court entertainments, and has not yet adopted Prince Montenuovo's scheme of employing dunes du palais for the purpose.

The spectacle of two American women appealing to the courts of law in England to prevent one another from using the title of Princess of Thurn and Taxis, who, in the matter of them, appears to have any right to it, is somewhat amusing. One of them is an actress of the name of Josephine Moffatt, who insists that she was married to Prince Victor of Thurn and Taxis, in Newark, N. J., who married her, and she insists that she is the legitimate wife of John A. Nicolls, of Uniontown, Pa., and divorced wife of Gerald Purcell Fitzgerald, who has at present a marriage certificate to show having been married to Prince Victor, by the Rev. Dr. Spence, on November 1, 1911, at Uniontown, Pa.

Prince Victor, however, as Prince Victor failed to obtain the consent of the head of his house to the union, which was contracted in defiance of those laws, recognized by the German and Austrian courts, which prohibit the members of his house from contracting a matrimonial alliance to any one not belonging to either a reigning dynasty or to a mediocrized family, the union is regarded as of a morganatic nature. It is recorded in the Almanach de Gotha, which is a record of the "naissance" (marriage of unequal birth), which means that the former Mrs. Fitzgerald cannot bear the title of Princess of Thurn and Taxis, either in Germany or in Austria.

Prince Victor of Thurn and Taxis is the black sheep of his family. He was turned out of the Austrian army, in which he held a commission in the Ninth Hussars, and out of all his Viennese clubs, and was involved in sensational proceedings with marriage brokers in Paris before he met the wife of the former Mrs. Fitzgerald. He had been led to believe that she was a very rich woman. But her wealth apparently consisted of a vol. do allowance of $5,000 a year from her mother, which during her divorce proceedings against Gerald Fitzgerald she swore was the sum total of her private resources. She had for a time a sum of $25,000 a year, granted to her by the English courts for the maintenance of the three children by Fitzgerald. But this, as we understand, has been stopped since her marriage with Prince Victor of Thurn and Taxis, and the children are no longer under her care, thanks, mainly, to the reputation of Prince Victor.

When Prince Victor was in this country, he at first cut a considerable dash, until the arrival of Prince Leopold of Saxe-Coburg in New York. Prince Leopold had been one of the victors in the war, and he was a member of the Ninth Hussars, and he was involved in sensational proceedings with marriage brokers in Paris before he met the wife of the former Mrs. Fitzgerald. He had been led to believe that she was a very rich woman. But her wealth apparently consisted of a vol. do allowance of $5,000 a year from her mother, which during her divorce proceedings against Gerald Fitzgerald she swore was the sum total of her private resources. She had for a time a sum of $25,000 a year, granted to her by the English courts for the maintenance of the three children by Fitzgerald. But this, as we understand, has been stopped since her marriage with Prince Victor of Thurn and Taxis, and the children are no longer under her care, thanks, mainly, to the reputation of Prince Victor.

Under the circumstances, it is a matter for some congratulation that when he sailed for New York, after his marriage to the divorced Mrs. Gerald Fitzgerald, he declared to the reporters at the dock, that never under any circumstances would he return to America, an assurance in which his wife joined, adding that she was glad to get away, and forever. I hope I will never see this country again."

They sailed as "Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Jones," and it was the fact that the lady asked for the cabin booked for "John Jones," that caused the confusion which led to the discovery of her identity.

With regard to the lady's first husband, Gerald Purcell Fitzgerald, he is head of the Fitzgerald family, of Waterford, and a nephew of that Edward Fitzgerald who is known on this side of the Atlantic as the translator of "Omara Khayyam," the Persian poet. Gerald Purcell Fitzgerald spent near $500,000 in improvements on his place, "The Island," Waterford, in the hope of reconciling his American wife to life in Ireland, but she would not even consent to occupy his beautiful country seats in England, among others,

Country Butterbeans, lb. 8c
2 cans Virginia Herring Roe for . . . 25c
Early June Peas, can 10c
Good 4-String Broom 20c

S. Ullman's Son
1800-1822 East Main Street,
500 E. Marshall Street.

"I AM NOW A HAPPY WOMAN"
Says Franklin Lady, Who Says She Has But One Regret After Many Years of Trouble

Franklin, Va.—"I am now a happy woman," says Mrs. Elizabeth Boone, of this town, "although for eight (8) long years I suffered dreadfully with womanly troubles, and I had to lie in bed for three or four days every month.

I was in such condition I could not do my housework, nor could I eat heavy or greasy food of any kind. I was a perfect wreck.

Some of my lady friends advised me to try Cardui, the woman's tonic, which I did. I have now taken seven bottles, and am sound and well, can do all of my housework, as well as my laundry work. I am sure the 7 bottles of Cardui did me $100.00 worth of good.

I have but one regret, and that is that I did not commence taking Cardui 5 years ago. I would have avoided all that suffering, besides saving all the money I paid out for other medicines that did me no good.

Several of my lady friends are now taking Cardui on my recommendation, and it is helping them."

If you suffer from any of the numerous ills so common to women, begin taking Cardui to-day. It relieved Mrs. Boone after her condition became chronic. It will surely help you.

Try Cardui.
N. B.—Write to: Ladies' Advisory Dept., Chattanooga Medicine Co., Chattanooga, Tenn., for Special Instructions, and 64-page book, "Home Treatment for Women," sent in plain wrapper, on request.—Advertisement.

Weather Breeding
Why a Perfectly Clear Day is Usually Followed by Rainy Weather.

Clear days, known as weather breeders, are so-called because warm and moist south and southeasterly winds usually prevail during these days, indicating the approach barometric pressure from some Western or Northern point. These warm southerly winds mix with the cold winds from the northwest, the mixture rises and, as it rises, expands, causing a loss of temperature, until, finally, the temperature falls sufficiently to condense the moisture in the air and raindrops are formed. Although the southerly winds are laden with moisture, their high temperature keeps the moisture in the form of vapor, as the moisture of the air increases with increase in temperature, and consequently clouds do not form until the cold currents are encountered and condensation takes place.

Baking testers can be bought by the package and do away with the old and objectionable habit of using a broom splinter.

Never iron stockings; they are much better put through a mangle.

PRINCE MONTENUOVO IS VERY UP TO DATE

Grand Master of Court of Vienna Starts Service of Feminine Censors of Fashion.

BY LA MARQUISE DE FONTENOT.
PRINCE MONTENUOVO, grand master of the court of Vienna, more than at any other royal or imperial court of Europe old-time traditions have been retained, and the laws of etiquette are strictly enforced, is nothing if not up-to-date. For he has inaugurated a service of feminine censors of fashion.

Emperor Francis Joseph and Archduchess Maria Annunciatia, who officiates as the first lady of the land, as well as the other ladies of the imperial family, have taken exception to those extravaganzas of fashion which have incurred the anathema of the Roman Catholic Church, especially in the matter of slit and transparent skirts and exaggerated décolletage.

Finding that the chamberlains were either unwilling to decide, or incapable of determining, whether a woman's dress violated the proprieties insisted upon by the Emperor, Prince Montenuovo, at the court festival of the dunes du palais to station himself at the entrance to the state apartments at the Hofburg, under the pretext of welcoming the guests, but in reality for the purpose of acting as censors of feminine costumes. Whenever the latter did not satisfy the requirements, the dunes du palais beckoned to a chamberlain, who by their directions offered his arm to the fair offender and invited her to withdraw.

Prince Montenuovo, who spent some time in the United States as a young man, is a grandson of Empress Marie Louise of France, and of her second husband, Count Adam Neipperg, who, in the dramatic "Madame Sans-Gêne," plays the role of the villain. In this way he has, through his grandmother, the Empress, who was an Austrian archduchess, a strong bias against the French Revolution.

His father, the half-brother of Napoleon III, "L'Aiglon," Queen Elizabeth of Belgium has likewise set her face resolutely against the present extremes of feminine fashion, and has been content to have the chamberlain and aides-de-camp act as censors at court entertainments, and has not yet adopted Prince Montenuovo's scheme of employing dunes du palais for the purpose.

The spectacle of two American women appealing to the courts of law in England to prevent one another from using the title of Princess of Thurn and Taxis, who, in the matter of them, appears to have any right to it, is somewhat amusing. One of them is an actress of the name of Josephine Moffatt, who insists that she was married to Prince Victor of Thurn and Taxis, in Newark, N. J., who married her, and she insists that she is the legitimate wife of John A. Nicolls, of Uniontown, Pa., and divorced wife of Gerald Purcell Fitzgerald, who has at present a marriage certificate to show having been married to Prince Victor, by the Rev. Dr. Spence, on November 1, 1911, at Uniontown, Pa.

Prince Victor, however, as Prince Victor failed to obtain the consent of the head of his house to the union, which was contracted in defiance of those laws, recognized by the German and Austrian courts, which prohibit the members of his house from contracting a matrimonial alliance to any one not belonging to either a reigning dynasty or to a mediocrized family, the union is regarded as of a morganatic nature. It is recorded in the Almanach de Gotha, which is a record of the "naissance" (marriage of unequal birth), which means that the former Mrs. Fitzgerald cannot bear the title of Princess of Thurn and Taxis, either in Germany or in Austria.

Prince Victor of Thurn and Taxis is the black sheep of his family. He was turned out of the Austrian army, in which he held a commission in the Ninth Hussars, and out of all his Viennese clubs, and was involved in sensational proceedings with marriage brokers in Paris before he met the wife of the former Mrs. Fitzgerald. He had been led to believe that she was a very rich woman. But her wealth apparently consisted of a vol. do allowance of $5,000 a year from her mother, which during her divorce proceedings against Gerald Fitzgerald she swore was the sum total of her private resources. She had for a time a sum of $25,000 a year, granted to her by the English courts for the maintenance of the three children by Fitzgerald. But this, as we understand, has been stopped since her marriage with Prince Victor of Thurn and Taxis, and the children are no longer under her care, thanks, mainly, to the reputation of Prince Victor.

When Prince Victor was in this country, he at first cut a considerable dash, until the arrival of Prince Leopold of Saxe-Coburg in New York. Prince Leopold had been one of the victors in the war, and he was a member of the Ninth Hussars, and he was involved in sensational proceedings with marriage brokers in Paris before he met the wife of the former Mrs. Fitzgerald. He had been led to believe that she was a very rich woman. But her wealth apparently consisted of a vol. do allowance of $5,000 a year from her mother, which during her divorce proceedings against Gerald Fitzgerald she swore was the sum total of her private resources. She had for a time a sum of $25,000 a year, granted to her by the English courts for the maintenance of the three children by Fitzgerald. But this, as we understand, has been stopped since her marriage with Prince Victor of Thurn and Taxis, and the children are no longer under her care, thanks, mainly, to the reputation of Prince Victor.

Under the circumstances, it is a matter for some congratulation that when he sailed for New York, after his marriage to the divorced Mrs. Gerald Fitzgerald, he declared to the reporters at the dock, that never under any circumstances would he return to America, an assurance in which his wife joined, adding that she was glad to get away, and forever. I hope I will never see this country again."

They sailed as "Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Jones," and it was the fact that the lady asked for the cabin booked for "John Jones," that caused the confusion which led to the discovery of her identity.

With regard to the lady's first husband, Gerald Purcell Fitzgerald, he is head of the Fitzgerald family, of Waterford, and a nephew of that Edward Fitzgerald who is known on this side of the Atlantic as the translator of "Omara Khayyam," the Persian poet. Gerald Purcell Fitzgerald spent near $500,000 in improvements on his place, "The Island," Waterford, in the hope of reconciling his American wife to life in Ireland, but she would not even consent to occupy his beautiful country seats in England, among others,

Country Butterbeans, lb. 8c
2 cans Virginia Herring Roe for . . . 25c
Early June Peas, can 10c
Good 4-String Broom 20c

S. Ullman's Son
1800-1822 East Main Street,
500 E. Marshall Street.

"I AM NOW A HAPPY WOMAN"
Says Franklin Lady, Who Says She Has But One Regret After Many Years of Trouble

Franklin, Va.—"I am now a happy woman," says Mrs. Elizabeth Boone, of this town, "although for eight (8) long years I suffered dreadfully with womanly troubles, and I had to lie in bed for three or four days every month.

I was in such condition I could not do my housework, nor could I eat heavy or greasy food of any kind. I was a perfect wreck.

Some of my lady friends advised me to try Cardui, the woman's tonic, which I did. I have now taken seven bottles, and am sound and well, can do all of my housework, as well as my laundry work. I am sure the 7 bottles of Cardui did me $100.00 worth of good.

I have but one regret, and that is that I did not commence taking Cardui 5 years ago. I would have avoided all that suffering, besides saving all the money I paid out for other medicines that did me no good.

Several of my lady friends are now taking Cardui on my recommendation, and it is helping them."

If you suffer from any of the numerous ills so common to women, begin taking Cardui to-day. It relieved Mrs. Boone after her condition became chronic. It will surely help you.

Try Cardui.
N. B.—Write to: Ladies' Advisory Dept., Chattanooga Medicine Co., Chattanooga, Tenn., for Special Instructions, and 64-page book, "Home Treatment for Women," sent in plain wrapper, on request.—Advertisement.

Weather Breeding
Why a Perfectly Clear Day is Usually Followed by Rainy Weather.

Clear days, known as weather breeders, are so-called because warm and moist south and southeasterly winds usually prevail during these days, indicating the approach barometric pressure from some Western or Northern point. These warm southerly winds mix with the cold winds from the northwest, the mixture rises and, as it rises, expands, causing a loss of temperature, until, finally, the temperature falls sufficiently to condense the moisture in the air and raindrops are formed. Although the southerly winds are laden with moisture, their high temperature keeps the moisture in the form of vapor, as the moisture of the air increases with increase in temperature, and consequently clouds do not form until the cold currents are encountered and condensation takes place.

Baking testers can be bought by the package and do away with the old and objectionable habit of using a broom splinter.

PRINCE MONTENUOVO IS VERY UP TO DATE

Grand Master of Court of Vienna Starts Service of Feminine Censors of Fashion.

BY LA MARQUISE DE FONTENOT.
PRINCE MONTENUOVO, grand master of the court of Vienna, more than at any other royal or imperial court of Europe old-time traditions have been retained, and the laws of etiquette are strictly enforced, is nothing if not up-to-date. For he has inaugurated a service of feminine censors of fashion.

Emperor Francis Joseph and Archduchess Maria Annunciatia, who officiates as the first lady of the land, as well as the other ladies of the imperial family, have taken exception to those extravaganzas of fashion which have incurred the anathema of the Roman Catholic Church, especially in the matter of slit and transparent skirts and exaggerated décolletage.

Finding that the chamberlains were either unwilling to decide, or incapable of determining, whether a woman's dress violated the proprieties insisted upon by the Emperor, Prince Montenuovo, at the court festival of the dunes du palais to station himself at the entrance to the state apartments at the Hofburg, under the pretext of welcoming the guests, but in reality for the purpose of acting as censors of feminine costumes. Whenever the latter did not satisfy the requirements, the dunes du palais beckoned to a chamberlain, who by their directions offered his arm to the fair offender and invited her to withdraw.

Prince Montenuovo, who spent some time in the United States as a young man, is a grandson of Empress Marie Louise of France, and of her second husband, Count Adam Neipperg, who, in the dramatic "Madame Sans-Gêne," plays the role of the villain. In this way he has, through his grandmother, the Empress, who was an Austrian archduchess, a strong bias against the French Revolution.

His father, the half-brother of Napoleon III, "L'Aiglon," Queen Elizabeth of Belgium has likewise set her face resolutely against the present extremes of feminine fashion, and has been content to have the chamberlain and aides-de-camp act as censors at court entertainments, and has not yet adopted Prince Montenuovo's scheme of employing dunes du palais for the purpose.

The spectacle of two American women appealing to the courts of law in England to prevent one another from using the title of Princess of Thurn and Taxis, who, in the matter of them, appears to have any right to it, is somewhat amusing. One of them is an actress of the name of Josephine Moffatt, who insists that she was married to Prince Victor of Thurn and Taxis, in Newark, N. J., who married her, and she insists that she is the legitimate wife of John A. Nicolls, of Uniontown, Pa., and divorced wife of Gerald Purcell Fitzgerald, who has at present a marriage certificate to show having been married to Prince Victor, by the Rev. Dr. Spence, on November 1, 1911, at Uniontown, Pa.

Prince Victor, however, as Prince Victor failed to obtain the consent of the head of his house to the union, which was contracted in defiance of those laws, recognized by the German and Austrian courts, which prohibit the members of his house from contracting a matrimonial alliance to any one not belonging to either a reigning dynasty or to a mediocrized family, the union is regarded as of a morganatic nature. It is recorded in the Almanach de Gotha, which is a record of the "naissance" (marriage of unequal birth), which means that the former Mrs. Fitzgerald cannot bear the title of Princess of Thurn and Taxis, either in Germany or in Austria.

Prince Victor of Thurn and Taxis is the black sheep of his family. He was turned out of the Austrian army, in which he held a commission in the Ninth Hussars, and out of all his Viennese clubs, and was involved in sensational proceedings with marriage brokers in Paris before he met the wife of the former Mrs. Fitzgerald. He had been led to believe that she was a very rich woman. But her wealth apparently consisted of a vol. do allowance of $5,000 a year from her mother, which during her divorce proceedings against Gerald Fitzgerald she swore was the sum total of her private resources. She had for a time a sum of $25,000 a year, granted to her by the English courts for the maintenance of the three children by Fitzgerald. But this, as we understand, has been stopped since her marriage with Prince Victor of Thurn and Taxis, and the children are no longer under her care, thanks, mainly, to the reputation of Prince Victor.

When Prince Victor was in this country, he at first cut a considerable dash, until the arrival of Prince Leopold of Saxe-Coburg in New York. Prince Leopold had been one of the victors in the war, and he was a member of the Ninth Hussars, and he was involved in sensational proceedings with marriage brokers in Paris before he met the wife of the former Mrs. Fitzgerald. He had been led to believe that she was a very rich woman. But her wealth apparently consisted of a vol. do allowance of $5,000 a year from her mother, which during her divorce proceedings against Gerald Fitzgerald she swore was the sum total of her private resources. She had for a time a sum of $25,000 a year, granted to her by the English courts for the maintenance of the three children by Fitzgerald. But this, as we understand, has been stopped since her marriage with Prince Victor of Thurn and Taxis, and the children are no longer under her care, thanks, mainly, to the reputation of Prince Victor.

Under the circumstances, it is a matter for some congratulation that when he sailed for New York, after his marriage to the divorced Mrs. Gerald Fitzgerald, he declared to the reporters at the dock, that never under any circumstances would he return to America, an assurance in which his